BED BUGS (Cimex lectularius)

Bedbug infestations are becoming more common and are being reported in the media more frequently. They are found in many different places such as homes, hotels, hospitals, movie theaters, and clothing stores. Bed bugs were almost wiped out in the 1950s, but pesticide resistance, modern air travel and the banning of DDT all contributed to their resurgence. If you would like copies of any of these articles, or if you would like
