1. Introduction

RocScholar is the institutional repository (IR) for Rochester Regional Health (RRH), and is managed by the Libraries at RRH. It provides storage and access for RRH's research and scholarly activity. This report highlights the repository's first year of implementation.

Content in the repository represents the scholarly activity, research, and work output of the Rochester Regional Health System. This includes but is not limited to articles, presentations, books, book chapters, newsletters, posters, and conference proceedings. Whenever available, we will provide access to the original content. RocScholar also collects bibliographic citations of RRH affiliated works and often provides a link to the original publication.

RocScholar is available online at <https://scholar.rochesterregional.org>. It is hosted by bepress's Digital Commons and was implemented on March 30, 2021.
