1. Introduction

RocScholar is the institutional repository (IR) for Rochester Regional Health (RRH), and is managed by the Libraries at RRH. It provides storage and access for RRH's research and scholarly activity. This report highlights the repository's third year of implementation.

Content in the repository represents the scholarly activity, research, and work output of RRH. This includes but is not limited to articles, presentations, books, book chapters, newsletters, posters, and conference proceedings. Whenever available, we provide access to the original content. RocScholar also collects bibliographic citations of RRH affiliated works and often provides a link to the original publication.

RocScholar is available online at <https://scholar.rochesterregional.org>. It is hosted by bepress's Digital Commons and was implemented on March 30, 2021.

2. Highlights

1. Total downloads: 25,390 (58% increase from last year)
2. Works posted to the IR: 580
3. Peer-reviewed journal, Advances in Clinical Medical Research and Healthcare Delivery had 15,680 downloads
4. Restructured the authors.html page to show only RRH authors. It also consolidated multiple works attributed to a single author into one resource, rather than showing multiple versions. This involved a data cleanup project to add RRH emails to all records as necessary, while also issuing the default affiliation of "Rochester Regional Health" to any RRH staff person, regardless of work site. This is now part of the workflow when adding new content.
5. Five new collections have been added to 'Presentations & Events'
6. Two new RRH departments have been added
7. The 'Nursing Research and EBP Day' collection is now segmented into separate series by year
8. Began work on refining the 'Rochester Regional Health Archives' section for future content additions that follow archival standards
9. Added an 'Instruction' document type to accommodate a curriculum submission for Internal Medicine residents
10. A sandbox site has been created for future testing before going live on the main site
11. Edited the about.html page to include RRH locations, as we began to add work attributed to RRH authors working at St. Lawrence Health sites.
